PREFACE

On the following pages you may note the activities of more than six hundred Emerson students, and the achievements of the graduating class of nineteen sixty-two. Far more is reflected here than is apparent to the casual reader, and much more is implied.

These pages, pictures, and covers are an obelisk beneath which is buried the memory of our youth; the first third of our lives. This was an era devoted to the completion of our formal education. Graduation appears to many of us to be the end of a period which permitted freedom to slowly and often painfully determine values to live by, and then granted the luxury of time for the examination of tentative conclusions. It is sad too, in looking back, that we must admit the years have gone by too quickly and so unnoticed.

If, then, this yearbook proclaims to those who read it and to us the end of questioning, then it must also mark the end of existence as men. If we clothe ourselves in the shroud of prejudice, lethargy, and apathy, then the whole of our lives may one day be recorded in a volume far slimmer than this. Our book must show us our responsibility to be consciously, constantly, eagerly, and earnestly aware of the world about us. Let us cherish and try to understand every moment of our lives.

DEDICATION

We were four years younger. We knew so much, then. 1962 was four years hence; it might have been forty. Now we've grown, and now we leave. We remember first impressions. New friends, small rooms, and large assignments. We remember our initial confrontation with tasks that seemed beyond our means, with more responsibility than we had ever known. Somehow, those tasks were done. We also recall a curious, overwhelming desire to be everywhere at once, to do everything at once, and to be more than ourselves. And we acknowledge a growing sense of discipline within us. It is in appreciation of and for this new-found maturity that we, the Class of 1962, dedicate our yearbook to a man who demanded that we meet his requirements, and in so doing, taught us to meet life's requirements. We dedicate this yearbook to a man who taught us to be someone else, that we might learn to be ourselves. And most of all, we dedicate this yearbook to a compassionate man who has given us his understanding. We the Class of 1962 dedicate this yearbook to our friend, Kenneth C. Crannell.

Dear Emersonians:

The bewildering complexities of our age offer an insistent challenge and an unparalleled opportunity for all individuals and institutions with still undeveloped potential for growth and service.

What we have available in our science and technology, our productive capacity, our mobility, our means of exchanging goods, information, and ideas is far out of line with our individual capacity to grasp its relation to ourselves or to organize ourselves to use it to achieve human aspirations and values.

The continuance of a free society and the achievement of balanced progress will require the development of the full capacities of every man and woman to the point that they may think and work at their highest level and live in full communication and free association for the definition and achievement of common goals.

We believe the pattern of educational experiences you are now completing has been the one best adapted to your balanced growth. The insights from reading have been balanced by the challenge of oral expression. The confidence from growing professional competence has been enhanced by the emphasis on initiative, leadership, assumption of responsibility, and the necessity to do your very best in public performance.

But this growth has only increased your capacity for further growth. You have skills and the potential capacity for creative thinking and leadership which are needed as never before. You have developed the capacity for a life of service and, increasingly, in our society the great rewards are associated with service in helping people live and work together. But a career in the service of our society must be firmly based on personal and professional integrity if it is to endure. The temptation to seek short-cuts must be resisted, there must be a curtailment of egotism, there must be a real respect and concern for those you seek to serve.

This is also a period of growing responsibilities and opportunities for your college. Year by year the Class of 1962 has built its leadership in campus thought and activities. We look forward to the steady growth of your influence in the alumni thought and activities which are essential if Emerson is to fulfill its responsibilities and take full advantage of its opportunities in this age of educational crisis.

We will miss you on campus and will look forward to your Founder's Day and Commencement visits and to the Beacon's reports on your activities. Whether it be one year or sixty years from now you will always find on campus members of our Emerson family who are deeply interested in you and in your life and career.

Sincerely yours,

FACULTY and ADMINISTRATION

S. JUSTUS MCKINLEY
President of Emerson College

*"He who knows, and knows he knows,—
He is wise—follow him."*
Arabian Proverb

Education is both individual and collective. The life of the student is, at one and the same time, lonely and gregarious.

From the moment of birth until the moment of death, one learns and is taught; leads and follows, or more accurately, follows, that the ability to lead may be acquired.

This then, is one of the primary goals of the academic institution. We listen, we comprehend, we question, we assimilate. This is learning, and the attitudes and abilities it inscribes on the individual may be measured in direct ratio to the leadership experienced during the process.

In many ways, the ultimate responsibility for this leadership may be attributed to the President of the institution from which it stems. But leadership must have a place to develop. Just as equally, the responsibility for the growth of the physical plant may be laid at the door of that office at 130 Beacon Street.

In relation to the Class of 1962, Dr. McKinley has faced and accepted these responsibilities with equal success.

We do not presume that following a wise man has made us wise, or that we know. We have grown as the college has grown. Let us now prove ourselves worthy.

DR. RICHARD D. PIERCE
Dean of Emerson College

*"He who knows not and knows he knows not—
He is a child—teach him."*
Arabian Proverb

We believe, Dr. Pierce, that this may be part of your creed.

When we entered this college, we were children. Some of us dared to believe that we knew. You taught us we did not!

Some of us tried to show the rest; you showed us all.

Some of us "knew that we knew not"; you accepted this challenge and directed our energies.

In many ways we are still children, for we have much to learn. We do not shrink from this challenge, as our perspective is more clear and our thinking properly channeled.

As Socrates said, "The unexamined life is not worth living." Let this be our guide and our goal.

Now as Socrates once said,

MRS. RUTH SOUTHWICK MAXFIELD
Counsellor of Women

"If you have a task to be done, give it to a busy person."

An instructor is many personed, with many and varied problems. But add to the duties of the classroom, the care of the academic and social problems of some six hundred Emerson students, and life can become complicated.

Many of these duties can be delegated, but responsibility does not end there. Then exists the duty to see the delegated work carried but with a kind word and a smile.

A kind word and a smile—this is the manner of Mrs. Maxfield and Mr. Nickerson. The Class of 1962 has come to recognize and value the strength of their character and ability.

Romantic poetry can be fun.

MR. HARRY N. NICKERSON, JR.
Counsellor of Men

The days and weeks of our college life are too short; the problems are sometimes too many. We are thankful for their advice and council—their efforts and successes in our behalf.

Conferring with our counsellors is a learning experience, for it helps us to "see the trees or the forest," and enables us to better face tomorrow with the ability to stand alone, because they have once stood with us.

ACTIVITIES

ALPHA PI THETA

Alpha Pi Theta began the 1961-62 school year by presenting the annual "Theta Fair." Its success was guaranteed by the traditional drenching booth, and the extra emphasis placed upon the late evening dancing.

In keeping with the spirit of cooperation with the college, Theta offered its services to the Broadcasting Department for a Saturday afternoon clean-up campaign.

The sports picture was anything but bright during the first semester, but Theta looks forward with optimism. Basketball looms as the big challenge. There will be competition in the bowling alley also. The "Thunder Jug" softball game with Rho Delta Omega proved very interesting indeed. It has always been a high point in the social calendar.

On the more serious side once again, Theta presented a Jazz Concert in conjunction with the Berkley School of Music shortly after the Christmas vacation. It was another success in a year which proved to be highly successful all around.

PHI MU GAMMA

Phi Mu Gamma is a National Fraternity for Women which has the intelligent advancement of the Fine Arts for its aim. While fulfilling this goal, the sisters have an opportunity to work together in order to benefit the sorority, the school, and the community.

The main project was working with the North End Union Settlement House. Children were brought to see the Emerson College Children's Theatre productions. In December, a Christmas party was given for them. Other activities included sponsoring Emerson Night at the Charles Playhouse and the Dunster Dunsters at Harvard.

Phi Mu Gamma encourages individuality, and each project is such that each sister is able to find a way to channel her particular interests.

PHI ALPHA TAU

Phi Alpha Tau is a National Professional Communicative Arts Fraternity, with social life being second to its primary function of furthering the speech and communicative arts.

Tau presents the Joseph E. Connor Award annually to a personage who best exemplifies outstanding communications in his field. The recipients of the award since its founding in 1953 have certainly proved worthy of the acclaim. This year the award won international applause when it gave the honor to the man who best represents the American field of comedy throughout the world, "The Clown," Mr. Red Skelton.

Tau also presented its annual Christmas Carol Sing, with an open house at 150 Beacon, with Dr. & Mrs. McKinley serving as hosts. With the help of its sister sorority, Kappa Gamma Chi, it presented the Mad Ball which proved to be a huge success for everyone concerned. Tau also found the time to add the following to its ever increasing calendar of events; boat trip, hayride, film festival, father and son dinner, and school boosters.

It proved to be the big year for Phi Alpha Tau in the Greek letter sports contests also. It regained its title of champion in football, while still reigning as basketball and bowling leaders.

Phi Alpha Tau continued to show its prestige and dignity in all the works and events with which it was affiliated.

KAPPA GAMMA CHI

Front Row: Barbara McNurney (Parliamentarian); Margi Gutlon (Corresponding Secretary); Felice Goldberg (Recording Secretary); Fran Borsuk (President); Roberta Jacobs (Vice President); Joanne Kolodney (Treasurer); Joyce Montag (Social Chairman). Row Two: Pat Valentino; Maddi Belitz; Penny Sharp; Brenda C. The primary aim of Kappa Gamma Chi is the building of ideal womanhood, based on Love, Loyalty, Trust, and Harmony. The secondary aim is the endowment of Emerson College.

Kappa Gamma Chi was founded at Emerson in 1902. Of the twenty-nine sisters in the sorority at present, nine reside at the new Kappa House at 191 Beacon Street.

Some of the activities on the "Kappa Kalendar" this year included the annual Kappa Auction, the Homecoming Alumni Tea, a Christmas party held at the sorority house, monthly bake sales (the proceeds of which went to the Emerson College Endowment Fund), the Kappa-Tau dance, and the highlight of the traditional sorority formal dinner-dance. A graduation breakfast for the Kappa seniors rounded out a busy and profitable year.

RHO DELTA OMEGA

1961-1962 was an active year for the members of RDO. The fall season began with the annual "smoker" at which members were chosen and during the last week of October the actives put them "through their paces." These pledges were formally initiated at a dinner at the "Smorgasboard." The first activity in which the new brothers participated was the inter-fraternity football game with Phi Alpha Tau. The highlight of the first semester was the annual Dream Girl Ball. Sandy Bart was chosen as the 13th Dream Girl. RDO ended the first semester with a show featuring the Kapos and a benefit performance of a movie, proceeds of which went to help television station WGBH.

The second semester began with a raffle in which one lucky student received his semester's books courtesy of the fraternity. Most of the second semester found the brothers busily engaged in the preparation and presentation of the fraternity show, directed by President Jack Hines. Also on the calendar for second semester was the softball and basketball game with the other fraternities and the annual Thunder Jug game with Alpha Pi Theta.

The traditional Work Week was held in April which was a profitable success. During graduation week, a tea for seniors and their mothers, as well as visiting alumnae brought the year to a close.

WEBC, "The Big and Brilliant Sound in the Back Bay," is the commercial radio station at Emerson. WEBC broadcasts on a low-frequency power and by closed-circuit to Emerson and two neighboring colleges. The student run station is maintained by both day and night students, giving them experience for the future in the departments of commercial radio—with its present day programming. The WEBC listener hears a peppy wake-up show, a day of commercialized music, the present popular tunes, jazz, and lush music with study in mind.

To separate Speech and Hearing is almost impossible, for one learns to speak by listening to the speech of others.

The Samuel Robbins Speech and Hearing Clinic is the training ground for those Emersonians interested in the field of Speech and Hearing. Here the student has the opportunity to observe and to work with children and adults handicapped by poor speech and or hearing. The student may also "follow the child through" from the initial interview, to the diagnostic interview, to the medical and psychological examinations, and finally to actual therapy lessons.

Students also have the chance to learn more at the Holy Ghost Hospital, the Woburn Public Schools, the Industrial School for Crippled Children, the Veterans Administration Out Patient Clinic, the Boston Dispensary and the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Hospital.

Sigma Alpha Eta is the national professional society for students in speech and hearing. The Emerson chapter is Beta Delta.

Sigma is the only student's national organization in this field in the country and the only student group that meets annually with the American Speech and Hearing Association in National Convention.

The chief purpose of Sigma is to provide a medium for enriched professional and social experiences through co-curricular activities.

This year, in addition to the regular program of guest speakers, panels and at joint meetings with the Beta Phi Chapter at B.U., the chapter was very fortunate in being able to be represented at the national convention of Sigma Alpha Eta and ASHA in Chicago in November. Two of the four delegates were able to attend through the interest and generosity of the Student Government Council. The chapter advisor is Dr. David Luterman, professor of Audiology.

THEATRE ARTS

"U.S.A."

The Department of Theatre Arts at Emerson is unique in that its goals are several and highly diversified. The student may gear his curriculum toward educational theatre, theatre performance, directing, play-writing, or any phase of the technical aspects of theatre including lighting, costume and stage design.

These areas, although taught in classrooms, are put into practice many times throughout the college year. The first major production of the year was "The Glass Menagerie" directed by Mr. Leo Nickole, chairman of the department. The cast, production crew, and production designers were all students.

Every method of theatrical presentation is explored in depth in order to afford each student an opportunity to know and fully understand the theatre of yesterday and how it applies to today's new and experimental styles, i.e., readers' theatre, arena theatre as exemplified in the production of "Valpone," and formalistic productions such as "U.S.A.," with emphasis on the script rather than on scenic and technical elements. Through patient guidance and enlightened growth, the student of the theatre is well prepared to meet any challenge the professional stage may present. The Emerson tradition of "Learning by Doing" manifests itself to the highest refinement in the Department of Theatre Arts.

During the fall season the GAL basketball team practiced diligently in preparation for games played against the Army Wacs and the Boy's Athletic Association of Emerson. During the spring months bowling and softball were the two main activities on the agenda.

GAL members have had a very rewarding year. Those who participated in the athletic events improved their skills and increased their interests in the sports. GAL hopes that next year more girls will take advantage of the opportunities that GAL offers and in that way make for a bigger and better season.

EVENING DIVISION

Audiology Institute
Graduation

The Emerson Evening Division at Emerson College is the specific business of the Evening Division Advisory Committee which is composed of Emerson administrators, heads of departments, and the director of the Evening Division. In this connection, it is appropriate to state the educational philosophy of the Evening Division: So That All May Learn!

In order to implement this philosophy it is the complex task of the Evening Division to provide for the needs of individual students of differing abilities, interests, backgrounds and goals. Hence the Evening Division curriculum is of necessity re-studied and revised every term.

Emerson's sincere interest in a practical and stimulating approach to the field of continuing education, has led to the development of such dynamic new offerings as: Technical Writing Institute, Management Communication Institute, Parliamentary Practice Institute, and Audiological Institute.

Consonant with the philosophy so that all may learn, Emerson Evening Division offerings currently range from Elements of Acting to Seminars in Psychology.

SUMMER SESSION

Mr. John Zorn
Director of Summer Session

The annual summer session from early July to mid-August offers concentrated study in areas of professional specialization and in related fields on graduate, undergraduate and high school levels.

The Emerson Summer Session is one of the oldest summer study institutions in the nation. Summer term courses were offered at Emerson as early as 1889. In 1941, the summer session at Emerson was the first fully accredited New England college to offer a specially designed course for high school students (no college credit, just experience).

The Emerson Summer Session offers small classes and individual attention for student growth. Graduate and undergraduate students in the summer term are most enthusiastic about their educational experience which is characterized as pleasant and profitable.
